Congress Inquiry Into West Point Dismissals Looms

BY EDWIN HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—(P)—Dismissal of 90 West Point cadets for cheating in exams brought demands today for congressional investigation of the military academy--including its football activities.

Senator Young (R-ND) urged Congress to probe the possibility that over-emphasis on football led to the breakdown in the academy's famed honor system.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, reportedly blamed such over-emphasis yesterday in telling lawmakers of the mass dismissals, largest in the academy's 149 year history. Senators said he hinted that a majority of the academy's game-winning football players cheated on exams because football practice cut down their opportunities to study.

West Point officials said the academy football team will play its fall schedule--win or lose.

"An investigation is in order and it should also cover too much laxity in conducting examinations," Young told a reporter. Young is a member of the official congressional board of visitors which inspects the academy every year.

Clean-up Recommended

Rep. Brooks, ranking member of the House armed services committee, said "the academy should be cleaned from top to bottom of all moral dishonesty. If any faculty members are involved, they should be fired."

However, army sources said no faculty members at West Point were involved.

Rep. Doyle (D-Calif), a member of the congressional board of West Point visitors said he would ask that the board investigate or at

Not All Cribbers Caught, Claim

Cadet Ouster Assailed By Son of Army Coach

By ARTHUR EVERETT

WEST POINT, N. Y., Aug. 4—(P)—Bob Blaik, star quarterback on the team and son of West Point's head football coach, bitterly criticized the United States military academy today for the manner in which it ousted 90 cadets for "cribbing" in examinations.

Young Blaik declined to say whether he was one of the cadets involved in the biggest academic scandal of West Point's 150 years. However, he used the pronoun "we" when discussing the ousted cadets.

Surrounded by admitted members of the 90-man ousted group, Blaik told newsmen:

"We were not allowed to notify our parents all over the country in advance. First notice they got was from the newspapers and over the radio."

Coach Earl H. Blaik dodged reporters for nearly 24 hours and when finally tracked down and asked for comment said flatly:

"No."

One of the 90 cadets involved, who like the others declined to reveal his name, told newsmen:

Homes Set Ablaze When Trucks Crash

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—(P)—A truck and a tractor pulling two gasoline tanks collided here early today, setting off a tremendous explosion, burning a woman to death and igniting porches of nearby homes.

Six others were injured—two of them critically.

Twenty residents in the area at Butlers Ave. and Park St., fled as the gasoline-filled flames leaped above their roof tops.

The victim was identified tentatively as Mrs. Zelma Grove of Columbus, age unknown. It was not determined immediately whether she was riding in one of the vehicles or whether she was a pedestrian. Her body was found under one of the flaming tanks of the trailer.

The explosion came from two 75-gallon gasoline tanks pulled by the tractor. When they exploded, the flames spread to nearby porches and residents were ordered by police to leave their homes.

Two Boys Hunted After Clothes Found

LORAIN, Aug. 4—(P)—Two neatly folded piles of boy's clothing sent police and the coast guard into action here yesterday.

Believing the owners of the clothing had been drowned, coast guardsmen dragged a section of the Lake Erie at Harmon's Beach for almost two hours. Police, meanwhile, tried to learn the identity of the youths.

Hours later, the mystery was solved. The clothing belonged to two nine-year-old boys, Tommy Bloom and Joel Hartley, both safe at home.

Mrs. Bryce Bloom, Tommy's mother, said the boys had been in such a hurry to join a party of the other youngsters Thursday that they just left their clothes on the beach after finishing their swim.

Joe's father is Malcolm Hartley, managing editor of the Lorain Journal. Tommy's father is a physical education instructor in firm director.

Based on the old belief that frost will arrive six weeks after the first katydids are heard, it will be up to five weeks before the first frost.

First katydids were reported about 10 days ago, and now their weird night notes may be heard in large numbers in shrubbery and forests, as well as along highways where there are clumps of bushes.

While it is an old belief, I have found that, like most other popular beliefs, it is not infallible, and sometimes more than eight weeks elapse from the time the first katydids are heard until the first heavy frosts occur.

The male katydids have stridulating organs at the base of the front wings, with which they make a peculiar, loud, shrill sound resembling the combination of "katydid-katydid".

German Youths Flee from Reds

'Festival for Peace' Deserted by Many

BERLIN, Aug. 4—(P)—Troubles began today for the Communist "Third World Youth Festival for Peace" in east Berlin when some of its delegates deserted to the west even before the show's formal opening tomorrow.

Fifty blue-shirted young east German Communists came over to Allied Berlin to ask about asylum, western youth organizations reported.

They were the first of what observers expect to be a substantial stream during the two-week festival.

The youth came over despite the road barricades and heavy police patrols established at sector borders by Communist police to keep them on their east Berlin reservation.

The regents told Dr. Soule they would not accept his resignation submitted last July 13. Then the prosecutor's office was asked to begin an investigation.

Dr. Soule's wife, Alma, found him dying in the basement of their home. He had given himself the fatal injection. In virtually his last conscious breath he told his wife it was useless to call for help.

Chief Assistant Prosecutor Edmund de Vine pointed out the situation.

Camps for Deserters

The west has arranged several camps to house deserters who are accepted. It has also put the facilities of 60 youth homes to such tasks as interviewing and entertaining applicants for asylum. But all must undergo thorough screening to establish that they cannot safely return to their Iron Curtain Homes. Otherwise, they are persuaded to return because the west can't support the financial burden of big influx atop the normal flow of political refugees from east Germany.

The first 50 young Reds who turned up during the night constituted in part an "exploratory committee," who desired to inspect what facilities could be supplied for them and other refugees to follow. Most of them were persuaded by the westerners to return to their eastern homes.

The explosion came from two 75-gallon gasoline tanks pulled by the tractor. When they exploded, the flames spread to nearby porches and residents were ordered by police to leave their homes.

Man Is Accused Of Fatal Beating

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—(P)—Walter C. Lyle, 22-year-old garage mechanic, was charged with first-degree murder last night in the fatal beating of Walter S. Gray.

Sheriffs' deputies quoted Lyle as saying he was present when the Linden Lumber Co. executive was beaten to death last Dec. 1.

Lyle pleaded innocent at a preliminary hearing.

The deputies said Lyle told them he and William R. Russell arranged to meet Grabow in a West Broad St. tavern several hours before Grabow was found beaten. Russell is serving a life term in Ohio Penitentiary in the slaying.

Lightning Kills Boy At Camp Near Jackson

JACKSON, O., Aug. 4—(P)—Gwynne Parry, 15, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Parry of Jackson, was killed yesterday by a bolt of lightning at Camp Arrowhead, five miles northwest of here. A companion who took shelter with him under an overhanging rock during a storm -- Tom Jamison, 16, of Ironton -- was stunned but uninjured.

The civil defense movie is being prepared for exhibition in Ohio. The governor was filmed in a set which reproduced his Columbus, O., office.

Ohio Wheat Crop Is Disappointing

Severe Winter Gets Most Blame

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4 — (AP) — Ohio produced a disappointing wheat crop this year, a preliminary survey showed today.

Growers blamed a severe winter, a cold spring and plant diseases, for the generally poor showing. They said yields slipped far below both last year's average and that for the 10-year period starting in 1940.

The federal crop reporting service last July estimated the 1951 Ohio wheat crop at 40,026,000 bushels. Last year's yield was 46,596,000 bushels and the 10-year average 46,583,000 bushels.

The service's Aug. 1 report is due next Friday and no federal information is available before then. But an independent Associated Press survey confirmed the prevalence of low yields.

Montgomery County reported an average yield of 13 bushels an acre, compared with an average 17-bushel total.

Hamilton County reported a slightly brighter picture. Yields generally ranged from 15 to 20 bushels an acre, about in line with last year's 17-bushel average.

Clark County reported one of its poorest crops. Elevator men said the grain was "wet and bad" and that the yield ranged downward from 30 bushels an acre to as low as six.

Marion County farmers reported crops below the average of 21½ bushels an acre in that section.

But the weather wheat raisers blamed for damaging their crops favored oats growers in Marion County. They reported oats yield at record highs with some farms boasting of 90 bushels to the acre.

Activities On the Farm

Meat salted and cured and smoked with hickory wood, is something that I like very much at this plant.

Chickens are butchered on Thursday and the work is done rapidly and economically. "We can pick a chicken in just a few seconds," Mr. Martin said, as he showed me the machine for doing this work.

A big business is done in custom butchering for farmers, and preparing the meat for storing in their lockers, in addition to a big commercial business for meat distributors.

I liked the clean way all of the work was done and the kindly helpful way that the customers were treated by Mr. Martin and the many fine folks who help him operate the plant.

Continued success to you good people, and you'll have it for you merit it.

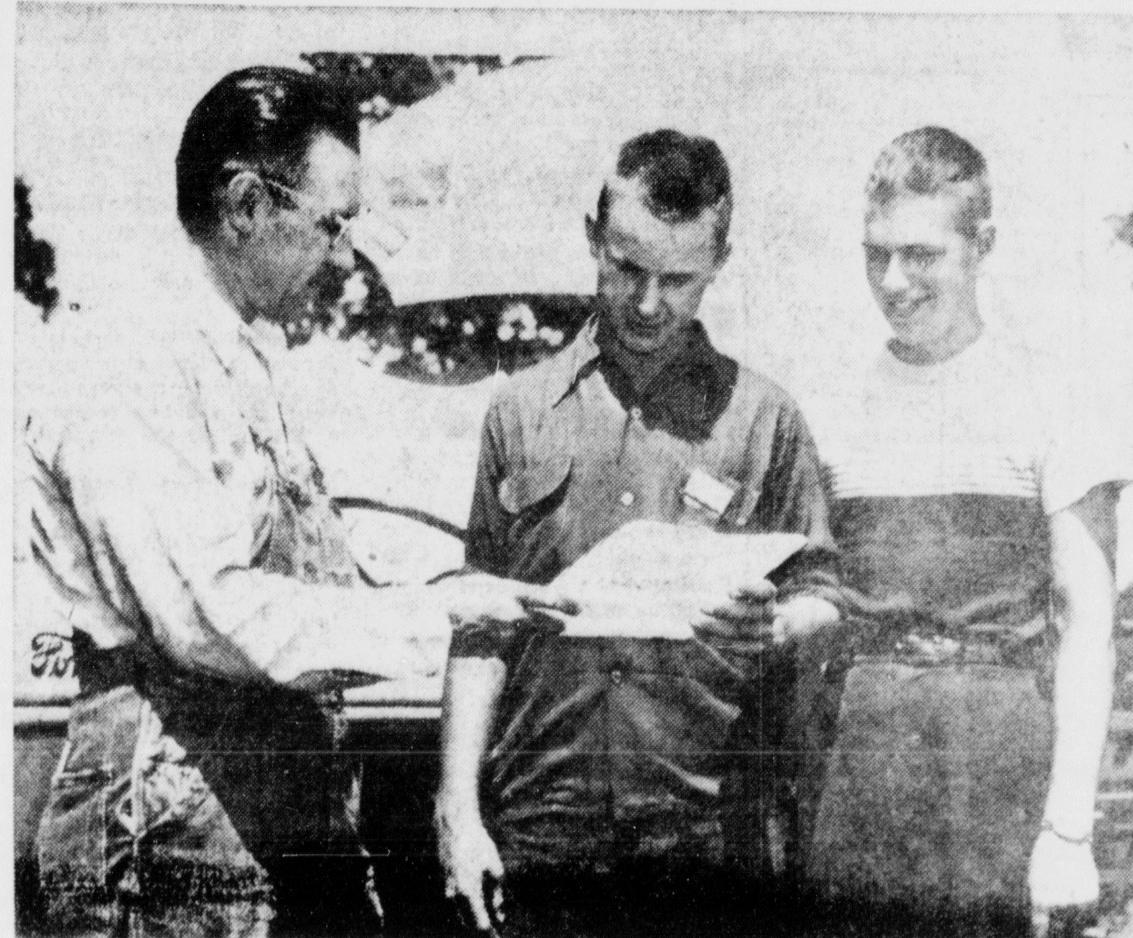

C-38 HYBRID CORN

That's a hybrid variety that is giving very good results in the corn belt. I recently saw a very good field of it on the Emerson Swissheim farm in Highland county, operated by Louden Burnett. It was planted May 4th, nine inches apart, fertilized in the row with 200 pounds per acre of 2-12-6 run over once with a rotary hoe, followed by a cultipacker and plowed once, when it was almost too high to plow a second time.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett and their oldest boy who is 12 years old planted 70 acres in three days. How's that for a record?

Eight cows are milked and 15 brood sows are kept. About 180 hogs are sold twice a year. Two tractors are used to furnish the power for operating this farm. Almost all of the work that is done in keeping the machinery in good repair, is done by Mr. Burnett on

Fayette County FFA Boys To Go to Camp

IT'LL BE A WEEK OF FUN AND recreation for Dick Hughes and LeVern Bock Sunday, when they leave for FFA Camp in Carroll County. They are shown above receiving awards from Wendell Kirk, Ford tractor distributor in the county, which will allow them to spend a week at the camp with all expenses paid. Kirk is handing the scholarship scroll to Dick as LeVern looks on. (R-H photo)

Dick Hughes, a member of the Future Farmers of America Chapter at Washington C. H., and LeVern Bock, a member of the Jefferson FFA group, will leave Sunday morning to attend the FFA Camp on the Leesville Lake in Carroll County.

They are the two boys, one from each chapter in the county, who were awarded the week trip to the camp through an award given by Wendell Kirk of the Ford Tractor Co. in Washington C. H.

rainy days and during the winter season.

HEAVY FERTILIZING OF CORN

Delmar Prickett, Wilmington, R. F. D. 4 fertilized a field of corn that he has cropped for three years in succession with 600 pounds of 3-12-12, and part of the field with 5-10-10, and it looks very promising.

"The reason the field was fertilized so heavy was because it was necessary to plow under a poor stand of wheat," Mr. Prickett explained.

If the season is favorable, this field ought to make 75 to 100 bushels per acre.

LADINO CLOVER

Fred S. Beery, Hillsboro, R. F. D. is one of the many good southern Ohio farmers who makes it a practice to sow one to one and a half pounds of Ladino clover with his clover and timothy seed in the wheat. He mixes equal parts of red clover and alfalfa and then adds enough ladino clover to this to get on about one to two pounds per acre.

Since timothy is sowed in the fall with wheat, breaking the rotation on account of a grass failure is very unusual. When I reminded Mr. Beery that he'd never get rid of the ladino clover, he smiled and said that he wasn't worrying about that. It is certainly a good farm practice to get a perennial legume like ladino clover well established on any farm.

CORN BORERS

They're still farm news and present indications are that they will continue to be until the corn crop is harvested.

The second brood did most of the damage in Iowa two years ago. This brood works on the ear and is not easily discovered like the first brood.

Last year much damage was expected all over the United States, but the weather was cool and many of the eggs of the second brood didn't hatch.

Be alert but don't go to the expense of spraying now unless it is needed, seems to be the chief advice given by folks who know much about the corn borer, its life cycle, feeding habits, control methods, etc.

On Good Behavior

MONTREAL — (AP) — A reporter claimed that of 50 cars he watched making a right turn at a downtown intersection, only two paused to give pedestrians the right of way. One carried a New York license, the other an Ontario one.

The national wheat goal calls for a slightly larger acreage than was seeded in the fall of 1950 for harvest in 1951. The state goal of 2,100,000 acres compares with 2,150,000 acres in 1950.

These goals are resigned to fill all known requirements and to maintain a safe reserve for emergency.

The national barley goal in line with the effort to increase the production of feed for livestock is about 15 percent higher than last year's planted acreage. In Ohio 23,000 acres were planted in 1951 and 27,000 acres in 1950.

The state goals for these crops will be broken down by counties by the State Agricultural Mobilization Committee in the near future.

Food, Farming and You

Fear of Food Shortage Is Unfounded 'tis Said

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 — (AP) — If you are worrying about whether this country can raise enough food for its growing population, the advice of the Agriculture Department is "stop it."

The department says some people have been "taking too seriously

"a number of recently published stories predicting a hungry America."

It's true the U. S. population is increasing at the rate of 2,000,000 a year—or more than the combined populations of Vermont, Delaware, Wyoming, Montana and County.

Furthermore, never has the foreign demand for American food been so large as in the past ten years. And no appreciable let-up in this demand is in sight.

Room for Expansion

Yet, the department says, there is room for vast expansion in farm production. Virtually none of this expansion can come from new crop land. Little or none is available.

It can come, the agency says, from better use of land already in production.

The department estimates that by using known scientific farming practices, farmers can raise 40 to 50 percent more wheat, corn and oats on land already used for these crops.

In the case of wheat, that means the country could feed a population more than twice its present size if it shipped none abroad. At present levels of export, it could feed around 70 percent more persons at home.

Case of Corn and Oats

In the case of corn and oats, estimated possible increases in production would mean grains are the backbone of livestock production.

The national wheat goal figures there are even greater possibilities of increasing production of pasture and hay—also important raw material for livestock products. It says livestock feed yields from pastures and hay could be increased from 60 to 70 percent.

Yields of potatoes and other vegetable crops from acreage now used it says, could be boosted 20 to 30 percent.

The department says the most important way to boost food output is by gradually building up the soil through conservation practices.

The latter movie is a saga of the police radio patrol which literally takes the onlooker behind the wheel and guns of a police patrol car.

On Friday and Saturday "Montana Desperado," with Johnny Mack Brown, and "Bowie Battalion," starring the Bowrey Boys, will be the double feature. "Montana Desperado" is the tale of a murder mystery with many tangents. The romantic leads in the western are taken by Virginia Herrick and Marshall Reed.

Mexicans Staff of Life Hit By the Higher Cost of Living

Tortillas are fashioned by hand by a typical Mexican woman.

By EMIL ZUBRYN
Central Press Correspondent

MEXICO CITY—The ever-soaring cost of living is threatening to deprive the Mexican poor of their beloved and nutritious tortillas.

The problem of tortillas and the masa (corn dough) used in their production has become so grave the government has stepped in. Cost of tortillas now ranges from 50 to 60 centavos a kilo; masa is pegged at 25 to 30 centavos. At these prices there is much short-changing in weights, and producers are agitating for higher prices.

The sum of 60 or 70 centavos is not much by American values—roughly seven to eight cents. But to Mexico's vast army of laborers and the poor, it is sky-high. There are rumors and fears that the retail cost of tortillas will go to more than a peso for a kilo. This would be calamity.

THE MEXICAN tortilla is not only a food staple, taking the place of bread. It also serves as a tasty spoon at mealtime for a vast segment of the lower-class population. And without the tortillo there would be poverty in the Mexican kitchen for it is the basic ingredient for enchiladas, tacos, chalupas, tostadas and many other typically Mexican dishes.

In soups, the tortilla is cut up fine to take the place of noodles or macaroni. In short, a housewife without tortillas in the land south of the border would not know how, or what to prepare for the family meal.

The marathon of high prices and hunger of the populace has stimulated the government to propose counter-measures, including a greater increase in subsidizing of growers of corn and the mechanization of tortillerias (shops selling tortillas). In Mexico's Federal district alone there are 2,500 establishments selling this staple food product but only a very small percentage of these are mechanized. Most of the 800 tons of corn which are distributed daily in the city and turned into masa become tortillas by the ancient hand fashioning method.

THE MAKING of tortillas by hand is part of the folklore of Mexico and the women vendors of tortillas, encountered at every turn in the streets of cities, towns and villages, is a picturesque sight. If the government should succeed in its mechanization project then one of the country's most sympathetic characteristics also will disappear.

But whether the government will be able to achieve modernization in tortilla making is another question. This would necessitate overcoming of set Mexican ways that are cool to any radical change.

The women of Mexico are not concerned with mechanical tortilla production. As they stand in line in front of the neighborhood mill that grinds corn and sells masa, sometimes as early as three in the morning to assure obtaining a kilo of the precious dough, their soft tongues utter many an "ay de mi" over rising costs.

The long lines in front of the mills are another part of life in Mexico: the women endure the cold, rain and heat, waiting patiently to be served the essential masa for the day's meals. Their quick, competent hands quickly transform the dough into the indispensable tortillas.

The tortilla is the bread of Mexico and without it the country would not be able, would not know what to eat.

Blindness Aid to Young Piano Tuner Here

Carl Johnson Has Great Interest In Classics too

"I've always liked music, ever since I was a little brat", is the simple reason Carl Johnson gives for being in the piano tuning business here.

The job of tuning and repairing pianos is, in itself, a difficult job. Anyone who has looked inside the parlor piano and seen the mass of wires and gadgets will agree.

For most piano repairmen, it's a pretty difficult job getting their head, hands and a light inside a piano to see what they're doing, but Carl doesn't have that trouble—he doesn't have to worry about adjusting a light to see what he's doing. Carl has been blind since birth.

About the only times he has ever been confused while repairing a piano is when he comes across something that shouldn't be inside a piano. And Carl has run across some very odd objects in among the piano wires of different pianos.

"Just about everything possible gets into the back of pianos," Carl said. Crayons, pencils, a police whistle, candy, nuts and combs are among some of the objects Carl has found. "I never will forget the time I found a purse in a piano", he said. "When I gave it to the owner of the piano, she said I wondered where that purse was."

Trained in Columbus

Carl got his training at the State School for the Blind in Columbus, graduating from there in 1949. The last four years he was there, he studied piano tuning and repairing.

When asked how old he was when he started taking piano lessons, Carl thought a minute and replied, "Oh Gee! Let's see—I had lessons in school and then you know how a kid get when he's about 11 or 12 years old—well, they say, 'Aw heck! I don't want to practice the piano.' That's the way I was."

After he passed the non-practicing period, Carl went back to his music and branched out on some different instruments. He lists the organ, bass viol, and clarinet among them. "I played the clarinet for five years in the school band," he said. Besides his talent with all of these instruments, he also has a fine voice.

While Carl was in school he was taught his music by the Braille system," he said.

Likes Hughey Backenstoe

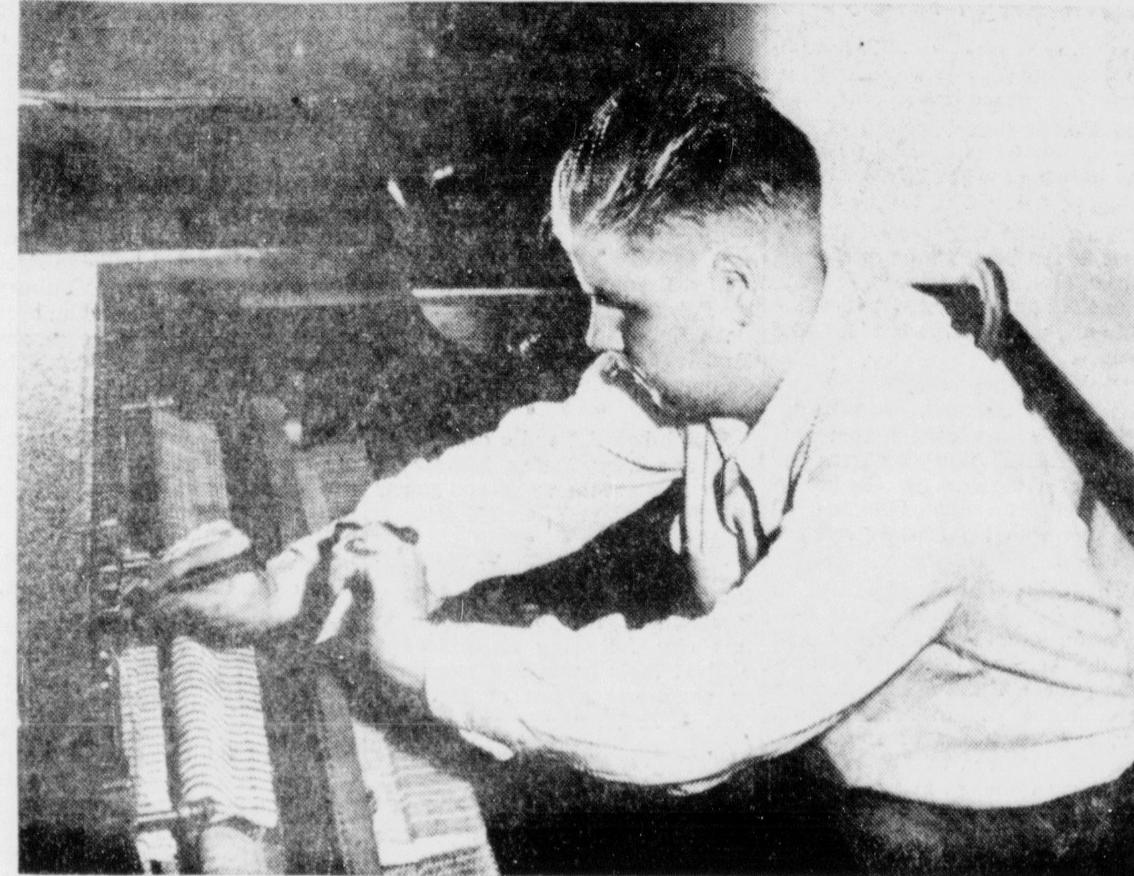

"I like classical music alright, but there isn't much demand for it now days" he said. He still likes to keep up on the classics nevertheless. At the present time Carl is learning "The New World Symphony" by Dvorak. He is studying here under Miss Frances Ging.

Right now, Carl is trying to keep up with the fast changing popular music. He said he likes Frankie Carl best on the piano, but after a moment's thought, added, "I like Hughey Backenstoe as well".

"I'll tell you another one that's good", he said, "and that's George Shearing, as far as pops go."

Carl has been in the piano tuning and repair business for about a year and a half here in Washington C. H. Before that he did the same job while going to school in Columbus.

His folks live in Cadiz, where his father runs a farm. His mother is a school teacher. He also has two around the corner to the firehouse sisters and a brother.

There are two places where Carl can be found when he isn't poking around on the inside of a piano. Fire Chief George Hall will vouch for the fact that Carl is very well versed in the art of fighting fires and fire

Most people wouldn't have any idea that Carl can't see, unless they looked at the new white cane he carries. Lawson Roades presented him with his latest one.

Cornea Transplant May Restore Sight But Not for Long For Ohio Youth

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—(P)

—An 18-year-old Springfield youth, almost totally blind since the age of eight, stands a chance of seeing once again -- thanks to the speed of air transportation.

Calling yesterday to find out what it was all about, Bissell was told it was all a big mistake. A Treasury Department spokesman said a check writing machine operator probably punched the serial number instead of the correct amount.

The physician used his own plane and a private pilot to fly to the Columbus airport where they met a TWA plane from New York City. The plane carried the fragile eye cornea packed in ice in a thermos container. It had been dispatched from the Eye Bank for Sight Restoration, Inc., in New York City. Speed of the transportation is essential in the operation.

Flying back to Springfield, Dr. Cook rushed to Mercy Hospital where the operation was performed. Only one cornea was transplanted. If this is successful, the other eye will be given similar treatment.

In another case, Sutton ordered a re-investigation of the fatal shooting of Robert Dennis, 31, by a policeman, Arthur Boy, 35. The shooting had been labeled "self defense" before.

Army to Have Football Team Although Hard Hit by Scandal

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—(P)—Army will field a football team this fall. That much seems certain.

But whether it'll resemble the power houses of recent years is a question that Coach Earl Blaik himself probably can't answer until he surveys what is left of a squad riddled by dismissals for cheating in examinations.

Ninety unidentified cadets were expelled yesterday for cribbing and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, said no names would be announced.

But Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia said General Collins told him and several other senators that most of the army football team was involved.

BLAIK COULD NOT be reached for comment. He was at the academy Thursday but had "disappeared" yesterday when Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., disclosed in Washington that the cadets had broken the sacrosanct honor code of the United States Military Academy.

However, Col. James Leer, head of the academy's information office, said the army would play football this fall.

That means a schedule highlighted by Southern California in New York, Nov. 3 and the traditional game with navy in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Dec. 1.

Even without yesterday's setback, Army was destined to enter its 1951 campaign minus 10 of last year's players—most of whom figured in the Cadets' 28-game winning streak before they were beaten.

What a Game! And Reds Won It

Dodgers Hold Lead Despite Defeat

BY JACK HAND
(By The Associated Press)

There's only one way to describe it: "What a ball game—and what a way to win it!"

It was Brooklyn's imposing Preacher Roe against Cincinnati's knuckle-ball hurler, Willie Ramsdell, last night, but it was Ramsdell who was still around when the final run came in the bottom of the 14th inning. Roe, for all his 15 wins and two losses, had departed long before.

Four relievers followed the tricky pitcher, with Ralph Branca being the goat for the 5-4 loss. It was Ramsdell ninth win.

Things started off well for the Reds. They got Roe for a run in the second frame to take the lead. Then dependable Pee wee Reese of Brooklyn hammered a far-and-away homer over the left-field fence in the fifth with a man on and the Dodgers were riding on the pilot's seat.

The Reds recaptured the lead in the eighth, scoring two runs—the first on John Pramesa's drive over the centerfield barrier, his fourth. The second came on singles by Roy McMillan, Ramsdell and Johnny Wyrosteck.

THE DODGERS WEREN'T calling it quits by a long sight, however. Andy Pafko opened the ninth with a two-base hit single to left and reached second safely when the ball took a weird bounce over centerfielder Lloyd Merriman's head.

Roy Campanella followed with a run-producing single that twisted the game into a 3-3 knot.

After that, only one runner reached second until the wild and wonderful 14th, which saw Connie Ryan and Manager Luke Sewell chased by umpire Lou Jordana after a dispute following a Dodger run.

Possibly angered at the ump's decision, the Reds went all out to show what was what in their half. Usher singled off Reese's glove and went to second as Preamesa's bunt sacrifice. Hank Edwards, pinch-hitting for McMillan, lined out a double to the centerfield corner of the bleachers to score Usher with the tying run.

Reliever Branca uncorked a wild pitch and Edwards took third. With Ramsdell at bat, Branca threw low to Campanella and the ball got by him for a passed ball, Edwards zipping home with the tie-breaking and winning tally.

The Brooks, who are leading the pack by 10 full games, will try to humble the Redlegs today, sending in big Don Newcombe (13-4).

Ewell Blackwell (9-10) starts for Cincinnati.

THANKS TO ROOKIE Jim McDonald, an ex-Red Sox now working for the last place St. Louis Browns, Boston and Cleveland are only a half game behind the New York Yankees in the American League confusion.

McDonald, who flunked his trial with Boston in spring training, manhandled the Yanks, 10-2, yesterday in the second game of a doubleheader after Vic Raschi notched win No. 16 in New York's 8-4 opening victory.

Maury McDermott, lanky Boston lefty, took full advantage of New York's lapses by driving home four runs while pitching the Red Sox to a 5-2 night triumph over Detroit. And Cleveland kept step in a second-place tie by rallying in the eighth to nip the Philadel-

Rockers Are Champs Of Softball League

More than 1,400 fans at Wilson Field Friday evening saw the Rocking Chair Inn cash in on an overthrow in the ninth to claim the Recreation League softball championship and the right to be the host team for the state tournament here. The final score in the best game of the season, was Rocking Chair Inn 3, the W. C. French team 2.

The deciding run came in the bottom half of the ninth inning when Pete Gray doubled for the Rockers and Robinson bunted down the first base line. Ruth came in fast to make the play at first, but his throw went high and Campbell missed the toss. As the ball bounded past the first base sack, Gray streaked home for the winning score.

Floating Dream Is Nosed Out By Solicitor in $5,000 Stake

Solicitor, half of the sensational pacing team of Solicitor and Tar Heel, today was one race up on Floating Dream, the pride and joy of Fayette County harness horse fans.

Solicitor nosed out the Dream from Ohio in a $5,000 stake at Roosevelt Raceway Friday night in a stretch duel that had the grandstand of the swank track rocking with excitement. The time was 2:02 flat.

Word of the outcome of the race came by telephone from McKinley Kirk, the co-owner of the Dream and her driver. Kirk said "she wasn't up to her best"—that was not in the tone of an alibi, but rather an explanation, because no alibi is needed in a race that goes in 2:02, with the first half in 1:00!

Floating Dream set a world record for pacing fillies last year as a two-year-old when she went a mile at the Lexington Trot in 2:04.

In the three times that Solicitor and Floating Dream have met (all this season), Solicitor won the first race. Floating Dream came back to even it up by winning the second and now Solicitor has the edge after winning the Friday night stake.

Behind the two sizzling pace setters in the last race were in the order of finish: Dusty Hanover, Direct Rhythm and Tar Heel.

Next Thursday, most of these horses will meet again at Goshen, N. L., in a $15,000 stake. After that,

Kirk plans to ship the Dream to Indianapolis for the Grand Circuit meeting.

They will get together again in September at Delaware in the country's pacing classic—the Little Brown Jug stake—and the richest race for pacers.

We are equipped to give you complete motor overhaul.

Welders Nosed Out By Sabina Homer

A home run by Turner, with Downey on base, gave the Sabina VFW the two runs they needed to beat the Washington C. H. Welders 2 to 0 Friday night.

It was a ball game from start to finish -- a pitchers' battle all the way backed up by fast and clean play in the field.

The Welders were held to a couple of harmless bingles by Matson. Easter was just about as effective against the Veterans holding them to five hits. But that circuit clout came when it counted most.

Fayette Has 55.6 Persons To Square Mile

State Average Is
194 Inhabitants
For Each Mile

Although seven Ohio counties have over 500 inhabitants to the square mile, as shown by the 1950 census, Fayette County has 55.6 persons to each square mile.

This information has been announced by the Bureau of the Census, which bases the figures on 406 square miles in Fayette County, with a population of 22,554.

Vinton County, with only 26 inhabitants to the square mile, is the most sparsely settled county in Ohio, and Noble County follows with 29 inhabitants. Morgan County has 31; Pike County 33, and Monroe County 34 inhabitants per square mile, the census figures disclose.

Ashtabula County, Ohio's largest county with 706 square miles, has a population density of 111 inhabitants for each square mile while Lake County, the state's smallest county, has 232 square miles of land area, and about 327 inhabitants to the square mile.

The Census Bureau's figures show that three of the counties in Ohio contain more than 1,000 inhabitants per square mile.

These are Cuyahoga County with 3,047; Hamilton, with 1,749 and Lucas, with 1,153.

The other four counties with more than 500 inhabitants per square mile are Summit, with 993; Franklin, 936; Montgomery, 857, and Mahoning County with 615.

For the state of Ohio the average population density is 194 inhabitants per square mile, based on a population of 7,946,627, distributed over 41,000 square miles of land area.

Thus it will be seen that Fayette County's average inhabitants to the square mile is little more than one-fourth of the state average.

The area in square miles, total population, and average per square mile of counties surrounding Fayette follow: Clinton, 312 miles, miles, 25,572 population, 62.1 per mile; Madison, 464 miles, 22,300 population, 48.1 per mile; Highland, 554 miles, 28,180 population, 50.9 per mile; Ross, 687 miles, 54,424 population, 79.2 per mile; Pickaway, 507 miles, 29,352, 57.9 per mile; Greene, 416 miles, 58,892 population, 141.6 per mile.

DIVORCE WANTED

James C. Reed, in a suit for divorce from Rosabelle Reed, charges gross neglect of duty, and asks custody of their three children.

The parties were married March 14, 1948, it is stated, and they had previously been married. The plaintiff states that the defendant left him and went to Pennsylvania. Bush and Rankin represent the plaintiff in the suit.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Richard Smith, of near Greenfield, has been granted a divorce in the Highland County Common Pleas Court, from Catherine Smith, on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

The board is working on a replacement for Lange, but, there is nothing definite as yet, the board said.

The board realized when Lange was hired that, "he was too valuable a man to keep on the salary we could pay him," a board member said.

Lange has accepted a position with Sinclair Oil Co. and will leave shortly for Chicago, where he will attend a special school to train him for his duties.

Lange has been with the county health office since July 1949. His duties while with the office included the health of the county, including inspection of restaurants, dairies and water supplies.

Mrs. Rosamond Burris, who has been a registered nurse in the county health department here since July 1, 1950 submitted her resignation to the health board, effective August 30.

She will join Miss Vera Bowman, assistant to Rev. Allan W. Caley, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church of this city, in entering upon work in the young people's department of the Central Methodist Church at Springfield.

Miss Bowman, whose resignation recently presented is effective at the end of this month, came to this city on August 15, 1949. She arrived here directly from special training in the National College for Christian Workers at Kansas City, Missouri. Miss Burris also attended this school. She and Miss Bowman were roommates there.

In their new duties with the Springfield Church, Miss Burris will be identified with young people's work and Miss Bowman will supervise special work among small children. Both will also have office duties and will be the parish church callers.

Both these young ladies have won favor in their respective duties here and their leaving will be regretted by a wide circle of friends.

Mrs. Clem Tarbill was removed to the home of her daughter Mrs. Paul Peck near Atlanta Friday afternoon in the Kirkpatrick and Sons ambulance from her home in New Holland.

Board Accepts Resignations

Health Dept. Staff Riddled

Members of the Fayette County Board of Health "reluctantly" accepted the resignations of Miss Rosamond Burris, health nurse, and Donald Lange, county sanitarian, during their regular meeting in the county health office Friday afternoon.

"We hated to accept the resignations, but there was nothing else we could do," one of the board members said.

With these two resignations, the staff of the department is left with a shortage of two nurses and a sanitarian. A complete staff calls for four nurses and a sanitarian.

The board is working on a replacement for Lange, but, there is nothing definite as yet, the board said.

New Regulations For Slaughterers Issued by OPS

New regulations applying to all slaughterers in Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky were announced today by Ralph M. Foldenauer, regional slaughter control officer at the Cleveland Office of Price Stabilization.

The amendment, issued under the new control bill, provides that slaughterers may kill only species of animals slaughtered in 1950 and that registered slaughterers must report their monthly kill during April, May, June and July to the OPS office, 1101 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland.

Exempt from filing the monthly reports are slaughterers who had a slaughtering quota base of less than 100,000 pounds annually. Failure to comply with the provision will result in prosecution, Foldenauer warned.

The order also provides that all registered slaughterers must continue to use their registration number to identify all cuts of meat derived from their slaughter. Meat not carrying a registration number is illegal.

Grading of all beef, veal and lamb by federal graders, is still required.

New slaughterers must apply to the Cleveland OPS office to obtain a registration number.

AUTO ACCIDENTS COST MORE TODAY

In two years time the annual automobile accident bill has almost doubled. It costs more to fix crumpled fenders and to patch up broken heads. More people, driving more miles, at higher speeds produce more accidents. To pay the bill you will have to "dig deeper" if you have no insurance on your car. Why take that chance?

Paul Kinnen Dies After Short Illness

Paul Kinnen, 47, succumbed to a heart ailment at his home at Shell Beach, Buckeye Lake, at 10:50 P. M. Friday.

He had suffered with the heart ailment for several years, but his condition did not become critical until about two weeks ago.

Although he was born in Lancaster and spent the last 16 years there, he grew up in Washington C. H., where he had many friends.

When he left here, Mr. Kinnen went into the hotel business in Lancaster as proprietor of the Young Hotel. He became active in Lancaster business and civic affairs and for several years was a member of the Lancaster city council.

Two years ago, when his health began to fail, he sold his hotel and moved to Buckeye Lake where he had a restaurant and general store.

He is survived by his widow, an 18-year-old son and a 13-year-old daughter.

His mother, Mrs. Leta Kinnen, and his brother, Earl Kinnen, both still live in Washington C. H.

Funeral services are to be held in the St. Mary's Catholic Church in Lancaster at 9 A. M. Tuesday. Interment is to be in the Washington C. H. Cemetery, with committal services about 1
